DISABILITY CLAIMS REVIEW

Using IROs to Reduce Claims Cost

Making the right disability claim decision within an expedited timeframe can be a real challenge. Traditional Independent Medical Exams (IME) cost an average of $500 - $1,000 per claim, and can take as long as three weeks to schedule. In the mean time, your company has paid out claims that run as high as 67% of the beneficiary's salary. By the time you've gathered objective data to make the right decision, you've already spent several thousand dollars. Does this sound familiar?

Now there's a better way: Independent Medical Reviews from AllMed Healthcare Management. AllMed can save you thousands of dollars and weeks of precious time in processing disability claims, while ensuring that each claimant gets the benefits they deserve, every time.

AllMed provides medical chart reviews by board certified physicians and specialists that quickly tell you, based on objective medical evidence, whether there is a legitimate claim. You get a written report in as little as 48 hours, which gives you the facts you need to substantiate your claim decision. You'll save thousands of dollars and several weeks of waiting on claims which ultimately should be denied. You'll also rationalize the use of IMEs and Functional Capacity Exams by limiting them only to those claimants who really need to be seen to further substantiate their claim legitimacy.

Make AllMed your first line of defense in controlling disability claims costs.
